Jamie Breeden specializes in helping Garrett Members realize maximum value from the Network. As Director of Member Services, she is "information central." She supervises essential operations, serves as the primary contact person for members, coordinates the annual retreat, manages application processing, negotiates member discounts, organizes the company newsletter and helps to monitor and streamline the discussions and documents on Garrett's members-only Knowledge Bank.

Breeden joined the Network as a volunteer at its 2001 "Pathways to Success" Annual Retreat, then continued as a virtual staff member while finishing her financial planning course work in Manhattan, Kansas. As her member services role evolved, she eventually joined Garrett full time.

She holds a Bachelor of Science in Personal Financial Planning with a minor in Spanish from Kansas State University. While attending KSU, she was one of a three-student team representing KSU that was named the "Best Collegiate Financial Planning Team in the Nation" in a competition sponsored by American Express Financial Advisors. She also was named the 2003 Outstanding Senior for the Kansas State Personal Financial Planning program.
